BODIES FOUND.

Exploring Party Reaches The American Consulate.

Charred Remains of Consul Prentiss and Family Located.

St. Lucia, May 18.—I have returned from St. Pierre where I landed from the United States steamer Potomac, in company of Consul Ayme, McLean, of the United States cruiser Cincinnati, and several other officers.

A dense cloud of smoke hung over the dead city, making the atmosphere almost as dense as a heavy fog. There was also a rain of ashes. Pelee was still active, belching forth smoke, cinders and ashes. A strong breeze from the direction of the volcano blew the black clouds over us.

Our party made a special effort to locate the ruined home of United States Consul Prentiss. We succeeded, and excavated sufficiently to discover the calcined bodies of the Consul and his family. We also located the ruins of the British consulate.

The threatening condition of the volcano, with the whirlwind of hot ashes blowing around us, rendered it impossible to bring away the bodies of Consul Prentiss and his family to-day. If it is feasible to do so to-morrow, Capt. McLean will send a party of sailors to bring the bodies here for the last sad rites.

It is feared, however, that this cannot be done, for the conditions indicate that there is more danger than at any time since the great explosion of Mont Pelee.

Soufriere Vied With Pelee.

Although attended with smaller loss of life, the eruption of La Soufriere was not less violent than that of Mont Pelee, in the island of Martinique. The area covered by the lava comprises 16 square miles. The fact that the loss of life and damage to property in St. Vincent were smaller than in Martinique is due to the position of La Soufriere and the smaller population of the district and the mountain overhanging several thinly populated cities whose inhabitants were given warning of the approaching disaster and fled for their lives. All who remained were killed.

Immediate Needs Supplied.

Washington May 17.—Secretary Hay has received a cablegram from the United States Consul Ayme at Fort de France announcing that the relief supplies now afloat are about sufficient for the Martinique sufferers, and suggesting that while St. Vincent may be in need, the public subscriptions in the United States should cease at once.

DIVORCE PROCEEDING

Instituted After Seven years Wedded Life—Desertion alleged.

G. W. Saddler has instituted suit for divorce from Harriet Saddler. Plaintiff states in his petition that they were married January 15, 1891, and lived together until March 14, 1898, when the defendant declared her intention to sever the relations of husband and wife, and that she deserted him, and refused, and now refuses to longer live with him.

After the death of her husband she moved to Cincinnati, where her marriage to Mr. Lipstine took place. They located in Hopkinsville in 1866.

Deceased is survived by three sons—Messrs. Ike, Charlie and Harry Lipstine—and one daughter, Mrs. Ike Hart.

The remains were shipped to Cincinnati Sunday night and the interment took place yesterday.

UNANIMOUS VERDICT.

Lewis Browns Slayer Acquitted of Charge of Murder.

Alonzo Burton who shot and killed Lewis Brown, col., of this place, was acquitted of the charge of murder at Madisonville Saturday. Brown was a miner and the killing occurred last Christmas Day. Burton had been out fox hunting, and returning home he met Lewis Brown at the lake at Earlington, when Burton stopped and entered into a conversation with Brown. Words came up over the dogs, when Brown threatened to kill one of Burton's dogs and did kill one and threatened the life of Burton. Then Burton shot and killed Brown.

It took the jury but a few minutes to come to an agreement on the case and it was an unanimous acquittal.
